Personal Finance Studio

User Guide • Public Beta 0.6

Change with purpose. Improve with impact.

This guide explains the public beta version of the application. It is separate from the personal edition and starts without any financial data.

1. Opening the application

Open the HTML file in Chrome, Edge, or another modern browser. No additional software installation is needed. Your entries are saved locally in the browser you use. For safety, regularly export a JSON backup.

2. Language, month, and currency

Use RO / EN to switch the interface language. Choose the working month using the month selector, or click + Next month. Available currencies are RON, EUR, USD, and GBP. Important: changing the currency changes the displayed unit; it does not convert existing amounts.

3. Categories and monthly amounts

In Income, Expenses, and Planned savings, click + Add category, enter a category name, and fill in the amount. You can edit or delete categories. When moving to a new month, categories can be reused from the previous month with amounts starting at zero. Amounts remain specific to each month.

4. Savings withdrawals

Use Savings withdrawals when taking money out of existing savings. Withdrawals reduce the savings balance but are not automatically counted as expenses and do not reduce the Available balance. If a withdrawal funds a purchase you want to track as an expense, enter that purchase separately under Expenses.

5. Opening savings balance and accumulated savings

Enter the savings you already have at the beginning of your tracking period in Opening savings balance. Accumulated savings takes into account the opening balance, recorded savings, and withdrawals. If you enter savings for future months, the result is a projected balance, not necessarily the money currently in your account.

6. Understanding the indicators

Indicator	Meaning
Income	Total income entered.
Expenses	Total expenses entered.
Balance before savings	Income minus expenses.
Planned savings	Amount allocated to savings.
Available balance	Income minus expenses and planned savings.
Savings withdrawals	Withdrawn amounts, shown separately.
Accumulated savings	Opening savings + savings − withdrawals, according to the period.

7. Current-month totals and selected-period totals

Current month totals show the indicators for the selected month. Under Totals for selected period, choose From and To months to view aggregated amounts. Only months that exist in the budget are included, including both ends of the selected range. Do not confuse period totals with the balance of a single month.

8. Exporting and importing data

Click Export JSON to save a copy of your budget. Store the backup somewhere safe. Use Import JSON to restore data from an exported file. Export your current data before importing, because importing may replace existing information.

9. Privacy and limitations

The public beta saves data in your browser’s local storage, not in an online account. Clearing browser data, changing devices, or using a different browser profile can make your budget unavailable without a JSON backup. Avoid private/incognito mode for ongoing tracking, and avoid shared computers for sensitive financial information.

10. Worked example

For one month, enter 3,300 RON in income, 390 RON in expenses, and 2,750 RON in planned savings. This leaves 2,910 RON before savings and 160 RON available. A 30 RON savings withdrawal reduces accumulated savings but does not change the 160 RON available balance.

Documented version: Public Beta 0.6. This guide is informational and does not constitute financial advice.